Million Architecture, PLLC was selected by Alltech and Robinson Construction to join their team in the development of this design-build project to be an anchor in the Lexington Distillery District. This new facility would house both distilling and processing for the newly branded, Town Branch Bourbon. The project was celebrated at its groundbreaking for its “showcase design” and substantial investment along the Newtown Pike extension corridor. At its opening in September 2012, it was added to the famed Kentucky Bourbon Trail.
